BREAKING INTO FILM

INTRODUCTION OVERVIEW

Starting a New Movie Studio

Our company is embarking on an exciting venture, entering the burgeoning film industry with the launch of a new studio. This initiative comes at a time of unprecedented growth in the demand for original video content, prompting us to explore the intricacies of film production. As part of our strategy, we aim to become a formidable player in the film market by harnessing market insights and trends.

PROBLEM STATEMENT

Navigating the Film Market

In response to the growing trend of corporations producing their own video content, our company is entering the film market. However, the lack of experience in movie production presents a significant challenge. We must analyze how different types of films perform at the box office to ensure our new studio's success. Through careful research, we aim to gather insights that can guide the type of films we should create, ensuring alignment with market demand.
